Dear [REDACTED],

Thank you for your email, received on 9 May 2017. You requested the following information, under the Local Government Official Information and Meetings Act 1987 (LGOIMA):

- a summary of Christchurch City Council's engagement and involvement in the cancelled Canterbury Earthquake Learn Prepare Act symposium since 1 January 2016, and further to that
 - a list of teams in Christchurch City Council that were involved in the preparation of the symposium
 - a list of all costs incurred by Christchurch City Council associated with the symposium
 - a copy of all invitations, draft or formal, regarding the symposium received by Christchurch City Council
 - a list of all individuals that received an invitation, draft or formal, regarding the symposium
 - a copy of all correspondence, including emails, sent or received by the Council regarding the symposium

Extension of timeframe

On 2 June 2017, we extended the timeframe on our response to you by an additional 20 working days.

Release of information

For your information, the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet were the lead agency for the Canterbury Earthquake Learn, Prepare, Act Symposium (the Symposium). However, I attach the information the Council holds in relation to your request. Please note that the Mayor and, by extension, the Mayor's Office were involved in discussions around the Symposium. In addition, Dr Karleen Edwards was a member of the steering group. There were no other Council groups involved and any activity was met from within existing budgets at no additional cost.

Please note that much of the information redacted from the CEO and Mayor correspondence was out of scope of your request. In addition, one email was withheld under 7(2)(f)(i) – to maintain the effective conduct of public affairs through the free and frank expression of opinions.

Withholding of information

The Council has decided to withhold some information under the following sections of the LGOIMA:

- 7(2)(a) – to protect the privacy of natural persons
- 7(2)(f)(i) – to maintain the effective conduct of public affairs through the free and frank expression of opinions

In the Council's view the reasons for withholding these details are not outweighed by public interest considerations in section 7(1) favouring their release.

You have the right to request the Ombudsman to review this decision. Complaints can be sent by email to info@ombudsman.parliament.nz, by fax to (04) 471 2254, or by post to The Ombudsman, PO Box 10152, Wellington 6143.

[IN-CONFIDENCE]

Hello everyone

Kelvan Smith has asked me to advise you that the DPMC media team received questions from [REDACTED] at The Press today regarding the EQ Recovery Learning website and the proposed symposium.

A response was sent to [REDACTED] and subsequent questions received. The response to these latter questions refers to the symposium sponsors group and gives your names.

For your information the questions and responses, which are to be attributed to Kelvan, follow.

Kind regards

Initial questions and responses:

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Was there to be an EQ Recovery Learning conference? What would it have covered?

The Recovery Learning and Legacy project was originally going to include a Symposium which would have covered the construction, cultural, economic recovery, natural and social recovery environments.

If there was to be a conference, why was the conference cancelled?

The timing of the event was considered too soon in the regeneration of Christchurch to be able to effectively reflect on learnings and legacy, and deliver the desired outcomes. No new date has been set for a Symposium.

The Government remains committed to ensuring that learnings from the Canterbury earthquakes continue to be captured and shared. A whole-of-government report to reflect on the lessons learnt to date, in the response to the Canterbury earthquakes, is being prepared and is expected to be delivered in the quarter ending 31 March 2017.

The decision to cancel the symposium was announced two months ago. Please find attached press release.

<https://www.beehive.govt.nz/release/lessons-being-learnt-canterbury>

Subsequent questions and responses:

Who ultimately made the call not to hold the event?

The Crown made the decision to postpone the event.

Why was it "to soon in the regeneration of Christchurch" to hold the conference?

Many aspects of the regeneration are still in full swing and yet to be completed, including some of the big projects like the Metro Stadium and the Convention Centre, as well as the future use decisions of the residential red zone areas. The new locally driven regeneration organisations Otakaro and Regenerate Christchurch are still in their first year, and a reflective symposium at this stage in time would not be appropriate while the city is still focused on getting things done.

From the Crown's point of view, when would be an appropriate time to hold it?

Christchurch has made incredible progress but the timing of the symposium will be appropriate when even more vital projects in the recovery, physically and socially, are completed and the impacts can be properly reflected on.

Can you also confirm whether or not an advisory board was set up in relation to this event?

The Symposium had a sponsors group which provided advice to the project team. This team included Karleen Edwards, Peter Townsend, Rod Carr, Jenny McMahan, Ta Mark Solomon, Sir Maarten Wevers and Andrew Kibblewhite.

Dear Karleen

Canterbury Earthquake Learn, Prepare, Act Symposium – 14-16 February 2017

I wish to thank you for your input to the Symposium agenda, which has helped us significantly in developing and improving it. The Symposium is now shaping up to be a motivating and dynamic two and a half days with a diverse, world-class line up of speakers.

I would like to invite you to join the Sponsors Group in opening the Symposium which will set the tone of the whole-of-recovery event and give a summary of critical messages on day one of the Symposium.

Over the coming weeks we are confirming Symposium speakers and sponsors. We will provide an update at our next Sponsors Group meeting on 28 July 2016.

Thank you again for supporting the Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Learning and Legacy Programme; your contribution to the Programme has been invaluable.

Yours sincerely,

Andrew Kibblewhite
Chief Executive

Introduction

Nationally and internationally there is a gap in knowledge, practical tools and capacity to recover from disasters. New Zealand has a responsibility to learn from the Canterbury earthquakes to ensure we are better prepared.

We have an opportunity to collate and present relevant insights, information and experiences that will equip leaders and communities involved in disaster recovery and complex challenges.

To support this undertaking, The Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet is working with organisations and agencies across recovery, including the private sector, community organisations, social enterprise and government, to bring together the collective learning from the Canterbury earthquakes.

To support the learning process we are developing the following:

EQ Recovery Learning Website: An online platform for sharing tools, insights, and learning summaries to support those navigating the difficult path of disaster recovery both in New Zealand and around the world.

Learn, Prepare, Act Symposium: A forum for sharing our collective learning from the Canterbury earthquakes to help form a lasting legacy for New Zealanders.

Learn, Prepare, Act Report: A collation of system-wide learning to inform action.

We will be successful when learning and insights from the Canterbury earthquakes are collated, embedded and put into action so New Zealand is better prepared for complex challenges and disaster recovery.

Learn

Collate learning from the Canterbury earthquake recovery

Prepare

Embed knowledge and insights to inform future recovery

Act

Put into action what we know

How can you get involved?

We talk about the 'benefit of hindsight' but there is no actual benefit unless we learn from our experience. By reflecting on your experience in earthquake recovery you can offer your knowledge to others who need it, help create a culture of learning in your organisation, sector, community or industry and help prepare New Zealand to recover from future disasters.

If you haven't already, there is value in undertaking your own learning process at this time, to share successes, what worked and what you would do differently if you had to face a similar situation again. This can be important for your own learning, your sector and is also an opportunity to demonstrate thought leadership to the wider community.

Creating a positive learning environment

We recognise that it is important to create a learning environment that honours those who lost their lives in the February 2011 earthquake, and the effort and commitment of all those who have contributed to the Canterbury earthquake recovery. To guide our collective learning we have identified the following principles underpin our approach and look forward to working with you in accordance of these principles.

- Whakawhanaungatanga: Creating respectful and trusting relationships
- Manaakitanga: Acting with integrity, generosity and compassion
- Kotahitanga: Unity of purpose, acting as one
- Kaitiakitanga: Guardianship on behalf of future generations
- Whakaritenga: Negotiating challenges, change and acceptance

How can we help?

The Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Learning and Legacy Programme team can help with advice and support to your learning programme. Please get in touch with us if you would like to discuss how to approach a learning process that best suits your community, organisation or agency.

Please contact cerllp@dpmc.govt.nz and one of the team will be in touch.

Dear Sponsors Group members

Thank you for your positivity and enthusiasm around the Symposium at the Sponsors Group meeting last week – it was a real boost!

For those of you who weren't able to attend, we set out the following process for collating the participant invite longlist:

- 1-5 August: Call for names from Sponsors Group members
- 8-9 August: Collate longlist and redistribute to Sponsors with invite letter for approval
- 15 August: Provide longlist to ministers for feedback
- 29 August: Invites sent from Sponsors Group (to align with website public launch)

We tabled the attached criteria for invitees and sector/industry map to assist with your nominations.

I'd also appreciate any suggestions you may have for potential MC(s).

Please send through your suggested names by Friday 5 August. You might like to use the attached template (this includes all speakers for your reference).

Thank you for your help!

CANTERBURY EARTHQUAKE LEARN PREPARE ACT SYMPOSIUM – INVITE LONGLIST CRITERIA

The Symposium will invite 350 cross-sector local, national and international leaders in disaster recovery (note this includes speakers, presenters, panellists). The Symposium will build a cohort of future recovery leaders.

We are targeting:

The 'key players' in each sector who will take back learning and can affect change

LEARN	PREPARE	ACT
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Person responsible for recovery from local councils / authorities in areas prone to large scale disasters e.g. Wellington • International practitioners who will benefit from learning, and/or will take the learning back to their country and/or will strengthen relationship with New Zealand (e.g. attendees from South East Asia and the Pacific – to be advised and funded by MFAT) • International experts who can provide a different perspective and reflect back on content presented at the Symposium • Leading researchers / academics e.g. CEISMIC 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • People who have led learning projects or events and are passionate about taking preparedness for recovery forward • In the private sector, organisations with the market share or kudos e.g. IAG (40% market share) 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Chief executives (national spread) • Canterbury recovery leader or expert • Ministers with recovery functions

We will create a whole of recovery presence through intentionally targeting key industries and players in each of the recovery environments. Where industry associations are in place, we will invite a representative to take learning back.

Key questions:

- What about future leaders?

Note invites cannot be delegated without approval.

Media Statement

Big names to attend recovery symposium

Minister supporting Greater Christchurch Regeneration Gerry Brownlee has announced a line-up of key international leaders in disaster recovery and preparedness for a symposium sharing lessons from the Canterbury earthquake recovery.

The Learn, Prepare, Act Symposium to be held in Christchurch in February next year will present the recovery experiences and lessons learned across many different sectors, including community organisations, government and non-government agencies.

"This is not saying, by any means, that we are finished with the process of rebuilding and regenerating Christchurch," Mr Brownlee says.

"But analysing and sharing the experience that the city and the country has gained is best done while we have the people and knowledge readily at hand.

"The purpose is to share these lessons with people around New Zealand, and the rest of the world, who work in the areas of disaster preparedness and recovery.

"With that in mind, the symposium will be livestreamed and I'm pleased we have already confirmed three international leaders will attend and speak at the symposium."

The three confirmed speakers are Elhadj As Sy, Secretary General, International Federation of Red Cross; Francis Ghesquiere, Manager, Global Facility for Disaster Reduction and Recovery (managed by the World Bank); and a yet to be named senior representative from the Rockefeller Foundation's 100 Resilient Cities project.

"These leaders will bring a global perspective to what we are doing in Canterbury, and their involvement shows how much our recovery experience is valued by the rest of the world," Mr Brownlee says.

Mr Sy says the Canterbury earthquake was "a tragic event, but the response to it was inspiring, and spoke to the dignity and resilience of the New Zealand people."

"I look forward to taking part in this symposium, to learning from those who led response and recovery efforts, and to taking these lessons with me to other contexts where the Red Cross is working to protect and support communities vulnerable to disasters and crises."

Mr Ghesquiere says the Canterbury experience is of great interest to his organisation.

"The scale of the disaster and the carefully coordinated reconstruction efforts set Canterbury apart as a recovery experience.

“The involvement of the community in discussions about what recovery should look like, the development of a new recovery authority and recovery plans, and the social wellbeing programme are just some of the stand out initiatives that can help other governments when they consider how to identify hazards, reduce critical risks, and prepare for or respond to a disaster.

“These lessons can also add significant value to the wider international dialogue on enhancing disaster risk management in vulnerable countries.”

Associate Minister supporting Greater Christchurch Regeneration Nicky Wagner says the three-day symposium is still in the planning phase, but more than 300 people from the disaster recovery and preparedness fields in New Zealand and overseas are expected to be invited.

“Presentations and material from the symposium will be made available for public viewing, so everyone can see what is being shared,” Mrs Wagner says.

“A number of organisations and companies have already confirmed their support for the running of the event, including The Tannery, Air New Zealand, Kiwibank, New Zealand Red Cross and the Earthquake Commission. In addition the University of Canterbury, along with its partners, is exploring the possibility of a course linked to the symposium, and we will hear more about this and other symposium plans as we get closer to the event.”

More detail about the symposium will be available closer to the event.

DATE: Thursday 28 July 2016

TIME: 3.00pm – 5.00pm

AT: Black Box Theatre, YMCA, 12 Hereford Street, Christchurch

Agenda item 4: Learn, Prepare, Act Symposium

Symposium agenda

7. The final draft agenda incorporating feedback from the Sponsors Group and ministers was circulated with meeting papers.
8. Kate noted much consideration has been given to timing, as a result the proposed 'unconferencing' session has been removed create space for more substantive content. The agenda is ambitious, however, the Programme will ensure speakers and MCs are well briefed and prepared. We are confident the agenda will be manageable and energetic.

ACTION: Members invited to provide suggestions for MC(s). Please email to Kate.

POSTSCRIPT: The Symposium will now start at 8.30am and the welcome and introduction sessions have been condensed to extend panel sessions.

9. In the coming weeks Kate and Elizabeth will work with Wil McLellan from Epic and Kaila Colbin from Ministry of Awesome to develop the innovation session. An update will be provided at the next Sponsors Group meeting.

Speakers

10. Kate noted that all proposed Symposium speakers have been approached. Almost 60 'heads-up' phone calls were made and responses were very positive.
11. In the coming weeks Elizabeth and Kate will meet with all keynote speakers to brief them further on the purpose and desired outcomes of the Symposium, discuss their role and to offer coaching support.
12. The Programme will develop a pack of 'speakers guidelines' and 'panellists guidelines' to assist speakers and panellists with their preparation and help them focus on recovery learning.
13. Kate noted speaking points will be requested in advance to help with event management – MCs notes, panel chairs notes, panel questions and daily summaries.
14. It was noted that we should maximise our speakers (most of whom are speaking for 10-20mins). Opportunities include:
 - Film interviews with all speakers;
 - Film more in-depth versions of speaker presentations
 - Arranging breakfast or dinner events
 - Link in with Ted-X New Zealand

The 'legacy of the Symposium'

15. There was group discussion around how the Symposium proceedings are captured. The following options were identified:
 - Film proceedings
 - Live-stream online
 - Live-stream to television (e.g. CTV)
 - Live-stream to public facility (e.g. library or lecture theatre)
 - Visual notetaking
16. Kate noted that the Programme is actively investigating live-stream options and there will be an on-site link at the Wigram Air Force Museum from the conference hall to the theatre. The theatre seats 95 people and could be made open to the public.
17. Members noted the importance of 'capturing inspiration'. Opportunities for this include:
 - Speaker interviews
 - Photos
 - A documentary of the Symposium
 - 'Learning worth sharing' booth for all participants (not just speakers) to share their key learning

Sponsorship

18. The Symposium sponsorship prospectus was provided to members with meeting papers.
19. Kate noted there has been strong interest in sponsoring five of the international speakers and contributing to the Symposium dinner. In the coming weeks the Programme will look to confirm these arrangements and drive for further sponsorship.

Satellite events

20. Elizabeth noted that hosting satellite events is a good way to strengthen on-going relationships. Opportunities identified include:
 - A joint event with Tom O'Rourke, Laurie Johnson and Lucy Jones (attendance TBC)
 - Resilience announcements in both Christchurch and Wellington (note Christchurch City Council Chief Resilience Officer looking to bring eight international CRO's from vulnerable cities).

Invite process

21. Members were asked to provide nominations to inform the Symposium invite longlist. A set of criteria were tabled to inform the longlist process.

ACTION: Members to send suggested names for the invite longlist to Kate.

22. Agreement was sought from members to sign a joint participant invitation letter. The invite would feature each member's organisation logo to demonstrate a whole of recovery event and approach. No objections were raised.
23. Kate noted the draft invite letter would be distributed to members for their review. The final collated invite longlist will also be provided for information purposes.

Canterbury Earthquake Learn, Prepare, Act Symposium

A forum for sharing our collective learning from the Canterbury earthquakes to help form a lasting legacy for New Zealanders and the world.

Learn together

share

absorb

Recovery leaders share their experiences in the Canterbury earthquake recovery

Prepare together

consider plan

350 leaders come together to share insights, and discuss how learning can be harnessed and integrated

Act together

energise
collaborate
pay it forward

350 leaders join forces to inspire action and change within and between their organisations and sectors

About the venue

An extension to the Airforce Museum of New Zealand in Wigram, Christchurch, was built to provide a home to museum collections after the 2010/2011 earthquakes.

In response to the need to support corporate activity in Christchurch, it was then repurposed and launched as a conference and events hall — a great example of the ingenuity and resilience of Cantabrians as they work to revitalise both the city and the region.

Symposium support

Help us provide a memorable forum for learning from the Canterbury experience

Why be a sponsor?

Support an event of national and international significance.

Exposure to a cross-section of Canterbury, New Zealand, and international leaders.

What are the benefits?

Associating your brand with:

- being forward leaning (investing in the future)
- being there for New Zealanders when it counts
- investing in knowledge, wisdom, and positive change
- fresh thinking, innovation, and ingenuity

What are the visibility options?

- space in the exhibition hall
- acknowledgement in speeches
- logo on screens or panel backdrops
- acknowledgement on website
- speaking opportunities at drinks / dinner events

How is sponsorship structured?

We are seeking sponsors for aspects of the symposium rather than the typical status approach. Sponsorship can be:

- in kind, or
- a financial contribution (minimum of $20,000 NZD)

Sponsorship options

- | | |
|---------------------|--|
| Venue sponsor | Help fund the overall venue and catering costs. |
| Welcome sponsor | Help fund the Welcome gathering on 14 February. |
| Speaker sponsor | Help fund the fees and expenses of the international key note speakers. |
| Gala dinner sponsor | Help fund the Gala dinner on 15 February. |
| Creative sponsor | Help fund creative contributions, such as artwork, performances, and multimedia installations. |
| Learning sponsor | Help pay the learning forward with a live-stream of the Symposium, or funding speakers expenses and hosting public events. |

Dear Karleen,

Thank you for accepting our invitation to be involved in the Learn, Prepare, Act Symposium from 14-16 February 2017 and for your continued support of the Learning and Legacy Programme.

As you are aware, we will identify over 300 leaders from across sectors to attend the Symposium in person and take away learning to share with their networks. The final draft invite is attached, please let me know if you have any feedback.

In addition, the Symposium will be live streamed, and we will hold a public ballot for 50 places to ensure as many people as possible can access and participate in the Symposium.

Over the coming weeks, we will be in touch with you again to provide guidance for your speech or panel, an offer of coaching from DK Jones of TEDxWellington, and a summary of what we hope to achieve from each Symposium session. In the meantime, can you please email through a photo and a biography of no more than 300 words that we can use in our Symposium publicity?

As discussed in our last meeting, we encourage you to share the link to our website as much as possible EQ Recovery Learning website. This went live last month with more than 100 resources and records from those involved in the Canterbury earthquake recovery. We are working with a wide range of agencies, groups and organisations to encourage and support them to share their learning, so the website continues to grow and help New Zealand and others to become better prepared to recover from a disaster.

I look forward to seeing you at our next meeting,

Dear [insert name here]

Invitation to attend the Canterbury Earthquake Learn, Prepare, Act Symposium – 14-16 February 2017

Learn

Prepare

Act

The Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Learning and Legacy Programme Sponsors Group, is pleased to invite you to the Canterbury Earthquake Learn, Prepare, Act Symposium. This will be held at the Wigram Air Force Museum, Christchurch, New Zealand, from 14-16 February, 2017.

The New Zealand Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet is hosting the Symposium, as part of the Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Learning and Legacy Programme. The Programme has been established to capture learning from the many agencies, organisations, professions, communities and other stakeholders who played a part, or who continue to work in recovery. Capturing their insights, information and experiences, and embedding this learning through strengthened resilience and post-disaster recovery frameworks, will ensure that future leaders, communities and those directly involved in a disaster are better equipped to recover.

Further details about the Programme are available on the EQ Recovery Learning website: www.eqrecoverylearning.org/about

The Symposium will be a highlight of the Programme, bringing together leaders from Canterbury, New Zealand and around the world. The Symposium agenda features a diverse, world-class line up of keynote speakers, interactive panel discussions and case study presentations as well as creative and innovative elements. Content and discussions from the Symposium will feed into a Learn, Prepare, Act Report – a collation of system wide learning to inform action.

We would like you to note that Symposium attendance is by personal invitation only and request that you do not delegate this invitation should you be unable to attend. You have been personally invited because of the learning you have to share, your ability and passion to drive change in your sector, and the role you may be required to play in future events. We expect that, through you, this learning will extend far beyond those who attend the Symposium. We want you to take the learning back to others in your network, and embed it so that your community is better prepared to recover from a disaster.

We hope that content from the Symposium will be accessed by as many people as possible. If you have colleagues or friends interested in being involved let them know that there are a number of ways they can access Symposium content:

- Watch the Symposium live online
- Host a Symposium live streaming event
- Enter the public ballot for one of 50 Symposium invitations. This will run from [date] to [date] online at www.eqrecoverylearning.org/symposium.

Please click here to RSVP at your earliest convenience and no later than [date].

Further information on the Symposium can be found on the EQ Recovery Learning website at: www.eqrecoverylearning.org/symposium.

We hope you will be able to attend what will be an event of significant value.

Yours sincerely,

Good morning Jenny

Thank you again for accepting our invitation to be involved in the Canterbury Earthquake Learn, Prepare, Act Symposium in Christchurch from 14-16 February 2017.

We are very much looking forward to welcoming you to the Symposium, and learning from your experiences in disaster recovery. We have identified around 300 leaders from across sectors to attend the Symposium in person and take away learning to share with their networks. In addition, the Symposium will be live streamed, and we will hold a public ballot for 50 places to ensure as many people as possible can access and participate in the Symposium.

Over the coming weeks, we will be in touch with you again to provide a summary of what we hope to achieve from, some general guidance to assist with your preparation and an offer of coaching from DK Jones of TEDxWellington.

We also encourage you to have a look at our EQ Recovery Learning website. This went live last month with more than 100 resources and records from those involved in the Canterbury earthquake recovery. We are working with a wide range of agencies, groups and organisations to encourage and support them to share their learning, so the website continues to grow and help New Zealand and others to become better prepared to recover from a disaster.

We are very much looking forward to hearing you speak at the Symposium.

Dear Jenny

Invitation to speak at the Canterbury Earthquake Learn, Prepare, Act Symposium – 14-16 February 2017

The Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet (DPMC) is hosting the Learn, Prepare, Act Symposium from 14-16 February 2017 at the Wigram Air Force Museum, Christchurch, New Zealand.

The Symposium will be a forum for sharing learning from across all sectors involved in the Canterbury earthquake recovery to ensure we are better prepared for recovery from future disasters and complex challenges. It will bring together leaders from Canterbury, New Zealand and around the world.

I believe you have valuable learning to share and I have great pleasure in inviting you to give a presentation on learning from the creative sector following the Canterbury earthquakes. The Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Learning and Legacy Programme team are available to support you in the development of your presentation if this would be helpful.

The Symposium programme will be highly motivating and feature a diverse, world class line up of keynote speakers, interactive panel discussions and case study presentations as well as creative and innovative elements. Content and discussions from the Symposium will feed into a Learn, Prepare, Act Report – a collation of system wide learning to inform action.

UNCLASSIFIED

For your information I have attached:

- High-level indicative Symposium agenda
- Information sheet on the Recovery Learning and Legacy Programme

As we are yet to officially announce the Symposium I would be grateful if you could treat this invitation confidentially.

If you have any queries or require any further information please contact Kate MacDonald, Symposium Project Lead at [REDACTED] or Elizabeth McNaughton, Executive Director, Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Learning and Legacy Programme at [REDACTED].

Thank you for considering this invitation. I hope you will be able to contribute to what will be an event of significant value.

Please advise whether you are available by Friday 29 July 2016 to Kate MacDonald, Symposium Project Lead [REDACTED]

Yours sincerely

Andrew Kibblewhite
Chief Executive

Introduction

Nationally and internationally there is a gap in knowledge, practical tools and capacity to recover from disasters. New Zealand has a responsibility to learn from the Canterbury earthquakes to ensure we are better prepared.

We have an opportunity to collate and present relevant insights, information and experiences that will equip leaders and communities involved in disaster recovery and complex challenges.

To support this undertaking, The Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet is working with organisations and agencies across recovery, including the private sector, community organisations, social enterprise and government, to bring together the collective learning from the Canterbury earthquakes.

To support the learning process we are developing the following:

EQ Recovery Learning Website: An online platform for sharing tools, insights, and learning summaries to support those navigating the difficult path of disaster recovery both in New Zealand and around the world.

Learn, Prepare, Act Symposium: A forum for sharing our collective learning from the Canterbury earthquakes to help form a lasting legacy for New Zealanders.

Learn, Prepare, Act Report: A collation of system-wide learning to inform action.

We will be successful when learning and insights from the Canterbury earthquakes are collated, embedded and put into action so New Zealand is better prepared for complex challenges and disaster recovery.

Learn

Collate learning from the Canterbury earthquake recovery

Prepare

Embed knowledge and insights to inform future recovery

Act

Put into action what we know

How can you get involved?

We talk about the 'benefit of hindsight' but there is no actual benefit unless we learn from our experience. By reflecting on your experience in earthquake recovery you can offer your knowledge to others who need it, help create a culture of learning in your organisation, sector, community or industry and help prepare New Zealand to recover from future disasters.

If you haven't already, there is value in undertaking your own learning process at this time, to share successes, what worked and what you would do differently if you had to face a similar situation again. This can be important for your own learning, your sector and is also an opportunity to demonstrate thought leadership to the wider community.

Creating a positive learning environment

We recognise that it is important to create a learning environment that honours those who lost their lives in the February 2011 earthquake, and the effort and commitment of all those who have contributed to the Canterbury earthquake recovery. To guide our collective learning we have identified the following principles underpin our approach and look forward to working with you in accordance of these principles.

- Whakawhanaungatanga: Creating respectful and trusting relationships
- Manaakitanga: Acting with integrity, generosity and compassion
- Kotahitanga: Unity of purpose, acting as one
- Kaitiakitanga: Guardianship on behalf of future generations
- Whakaritenga: Negotiating challenges, change and acceptance

How can we help?

The Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Learning and Legacy Programme team can help with advice and support to your learning programme. Please get in touch with us if you would like to discuss how to approach a learning process that best suits your community, organisation or agency.

Please contact cerllp@dpmc.govt.nz and one of the team will be in touch.

[IN-CONFIDENCE]

Hi Lianne.

[REDACTED]

First of all, apologies for not writing to you on the decision re the symposium. I had understood one of the Christchurch Regen Ministers had spoken to you directly. We did send a letter to other speakers but I made the call – erroneously! – that that had been overtaken by events in your case. I own that one. As far as how the lessons learned will be pursued we are of course maintaining the excellent website (and will transfer into MCDEM so we can add to it in time!), we are pulling together collective learnings from the government effort, which will turn into a report, and we are actively testing both what we should do in the current recovery against what we have learnt from Canterbury. There isn't and won't be a specific Cabinet paper on the symposium decision.

Dear Andrew

Thank you for coming yesterday. I appreciate the fact that you made time available in a what was a truncated schedule. Two things I thought I would follow up are, first, the importance of communication. I had been invited to speak at the Symposium, so I believe a letter advising the new arrangements would have been appropriate. Karleen passed on the advice that it would not proceed, but it isn't clear how the lessons learned will be pursued. I would like a copy of the Cabinet Paper if you could direct me to the link or simply send it. I'd rather not make an OIA request if I can avoid it. I am completely sincere when I say that I agree that the timing wasn't right, but it must happen. It's one of my key drivers for standing again and I want a job well done. I have looked with some concern at media reports around Wellington - feels like déjà vu all over again as they say.

If not, I hope you have a well-deserved break and I will catch up in 2017.

Dear Mayor Dalziel

I am writing to advise that the Learn, Prepare, Act Symposium planned for 14-16 February 2017 in Christchurch has been cancelled. It was agreed that the timing of the Symposium was too soon and that the government would like to continue to focus on its Canterbury regeneration priorities.

I appreciate your support of the Canterbury Earthquake Recovery Learning and Legacy Programme through your willingness to participate in the Symposium. Please accept my apologies for any inconvenience this may cause.

If you have case studies or tools from the Canterbury earthquake recovery that may be of value to recovery practitioners both nationally and internationally, please consider submitting these as soon as practicable. To arrange this, please contact the EQ Recovery Learning website team at EQRecoveryLearning@dpmc.govt.nz.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions or require further information.

Hi Lianne

I've had a call from Andrew Kibblewhite who would like to come down to Christchurch to talk to you about the symposium next year. He was due to come down next week, but given developments this week, is keen to meet with you. You've got a bit on but I think we could make something work. Would you like us to arrange this meeting for you?

Bev can you have a think about what works best from a diary perspective also?

Options are tomorrow morning - he'd need to be on a plane by 1pm
Thursday - the least easy day from his perspective. He could get on an 11am plane at the earliest and would have to be back on a plane by 1:30 or 2 or thereabouts
Friday - he could get an early flight.

Hi Lianne

Thank you for sending through the presentation and speaking notes. I enjoyed reading through them last night – and even agreed with a good number of the points you were making! Thank you for meeting with Kelvan and Elizabeth earlier in the week as well. I have had a debrief from that conversation so think I have a reasonable sense of some of the matters you raised.

The first thing I would say is we are keen to stay in touch with you and make sure the agenda for the symposium works well. We have some thoughts on how we can address your specific concerns as well as making sure a good range of perspectives are heard.

But I also wanted to make really clear that you understood the lengths we are going to, to make sure the whole learning and legacy programme, including the symposium, is structured and organised in a way that creates a constructive, reflective environment and helps us learn the lessons of recovery, prepare better for the future and take action. I think the symposium agenda as currently structured already captures a great variety of perspectives and Elizabeth and her team (aided and encouraged by the sponsors group) are going out of their way to make sure different voices have their chance to be heard. We will be looking to capture both the diversity of views that will be presented, but also the areas of convergence where a consensus for change might emerge.

I am very keen to stay in touch with you over the next few months. And of course Karleen will have a more regular window into progress through her role on the sponsors group and I am sure will also be keeping you in the loop.

I think we are catching up on the 28th in Christchurch, so will talk further soon.

Best regards

Andrew

Dear Andrew

When this invitation came through I read the email and not the attachments. Nothing in the email below indicated that I had been invited to speak at the welcome cocktail event in the evening after the first day is concluded. I note that I am also invited to participate in a panel on what it's like to lead in recovery. I was shown yesterday the 'final draft agenda' (speakers to be confirmed) of a "symposium". I now see that is intended to be chaired by the Rt Hon Jenny Shipley, and I would sit alongside Hon Gerry Brownlee, Dame Margaret Bazley, Duncan Gibb and Leanne

Curtis. I have no idea 'how to lead in recovery' in that context - I understand international best practice - but that's not what happened here as you know.

The only thing that makes a disaster of the magnitude we have experienced meaningful is that lessons are learned and shared with others. I have attached the presentation I made in Auckland last week.

I thought I should send this tonight as the Prime Minister is here tomorrow and I wanted to give you a heads up before I saw him.

I don't intend to make any public statement about this matter until after the election, which provides sufficient time for a fundamental rethink of where this is headed.
